

70380440 # CLEVELAND, Ohio -- Cleveland.com today starts as the exclusive home of the "More Sports and Les Levine" show, featuring the legendary Cleveland sports personality and cleveland.com sports reporters and personalities. # Levine's show will air exclusively on cleveland.com five nights a week from 6-7 p.m., and different members of cleveland.com's staff will join Levine throughout the week, as well as guests from across the country. # Levine has been a part of the Cleveland radio and TV scene since 1970. The show had previously aired on Spectrum Sports, which is now being converted into Spectrum News 1. # "It's a win-win because cleveland.com now has a daily vehicle for sports in this show. They've always had the content and the expertise," said Mike Bacon, vice president and general managers of Classic Teleproductions, the company that produces "More Sports and Les Levine." # "Now, we've got a vehicle where it's there. And we've got the ability, without having to jump through hoops and stuff. Everything's there to access and put it on the air, or on the post, whatever the terminology may be." # Classic Teleproductions and cleveland.com have collaborated in the past, including the broadcast of the 2016 Cavaliers NBA championship parade and the "Friday Night Huddle" in 2016 and 2017, which was a live update show of high school football games.

Riley Kuznia always wanted to be a soldier, even before he toddled off to the school for the first time in his northwestern Minnesota community. # "Playing soldier, it's what Riley did from 3 or 4 years old," his mother, Markelle Kuznia, said Wednesday. "He was always patriotic. He thought it was his duty to serve his country." # But a knock at the family's home Tuesday in Karlstad brought Markelle Kuznia the news every military parent dreads. She opened the door to a pair of Marines who told her that Lance Cpl. Riley S. Kuznia had been shot and killed while on duty at the Marine Barracks in Washington, D.C. # Kuznia, 20, was shot about 5 a.m. Tuesday, but his family knows few details about what happened. "We're really not getting a whole lot," Markelle Kuznia said. # In the meantime, the young man's mother said, she is consumed with how she will travel to Washington in the coming days and "fly back home with him." # Kuznia graduated in 2017 from Tri-County High School in a class of roughly 15, District Superintendent Ryan Baron said Wednesday. # Riley Kuznia # Marine Corps spokesman Gunnery Sgt. John Jackson said his military branch is not yet releasing the circumstances of the shooting, but he did say
