

Charlottesville, Va., Saturday, Jan. 5, 2019. (AP Photo/Steve Helber) # Virginia guard Kyle Guy (5) celebrates a 3-pointer during the first half of an NCAA college basketball game against Florida State in Charlottesville, Va., Saturday, Jan. 5, 2019. (AP Photo/Steve Helber) # Steve Helber # Virginia guard Braxton Key, right, struggles for the ball with Florida State guard David Nichols, left, during the first half of an NCAA college basketball game in Charlottesville, Va., Saturday, Jan. 5, 2019. (AP Photo/Steve Helber) CHARLOTTESVILLE #

With under nine minutes left Saturday against Florida State, Virginia was enduring a stretch where it had misfired on 12 of 14 field goal attempts, and De'Andre Hunter and Ty Jerome were a combined 4-of-19 shooting for the afternoon. # Bad news for U.Va. against the No. 9-ranked team in the nation, right? Not with the Cavaliers squeezing the life out of FSU's shooters and getting timely offensive boosts from Kyle Guy and Braxton Key. # Despite the rough patch in the second half, No. 4 U.Va. maintained a 21-point lead before ultimately cruising to a 65-52 victory for its 11th straight win in ACC openers. Hunter and Jerome struggled, but Guy was as deadly shooting the ball in the first half as he's been all season. # " It was just going to be who could impose their will on each other and outlast, " U.Va. coach Tony Bennett said regarding the mindset against FSU, which defeated the Cavaliers two seasons ago in John Paul Jones Arena and lost by four points last season to the Cavaliers in Tallahassee, Fla. " It's always been like that against (FSU coach Leonard Hamilton